Key Outpost of British in Libya Feared Taken

Cairo —(P)—The British announced that on the order of General Ritchie the garrison of Bir Hacheim, former anchor of the British line in Libya was withdrawn during the night of June 10-11.

Berlin —(P)—The German high command announced that its land forces Thursday stormed and captured Bir Hacheim, southern anchor of the British defense line in Italian Libya.

(This had not been confirmed but London admitted it probably was true. They added that the fall of Bir Hacheim would relieve the German supply difficulties but the position was not regarded as vital to the British campaign.)

(If the little stronghold has been beaten down it was only after at least 13 attacks by Axis forces in the now 17-day desert battle.)

(This oasis is a plateau almost square rising out of the desert. It is well of odoriferous water which give the place its name, meaning well of wisdom.)

(Defeated at first by Free French forces almost alone against Italians attacks the little outpost once sent out the thrust "send us more Italians" in the later stages of the fight with German mechanized forces and artillery thrown against the strongpoint, supported by bombers, and British reinforcements were sent to help out.)

Owners Warned to Keep Dogs Up

Police late Thursday warned all dog-owners inside the city limits to keep their dogs up or have them shot. Several cases of rabies have been reported within the last few days and police killed nine stray dogs Wednesday.

Washington —(P)—Dramatic new accounts of the battle of Midway revealed Thursday that American flying fortresses and other forces broke up two Japanese fleets and beat off attacks by 160 enemy planes and saved the Hawaiian Islands from invasion.

Admiral Nimitz commanding the Pacific fleet said perhaps half of the enemy ships were sunk or damaged in the 3-day battle which saw Japan suffer her greatest naval disaster in history.

3 Million Dutch to Be Resettled in West Russia

London —(P)—German authorities in Holland have set up an official corporation to carry out a vast plan of moving 3 million Dutch from the Netherlands to settlements in German-occupied western Russia. Aneta reported Thursday.

The Netherlands agency quoted Reichsmarshal Goering's newspaper as saying these districts will compensate the Dutch for colonies which they have lost for all times.

The new corporation called the Netherlands East Company given monopoly on Dutch settlements in German-occupied western Russia. Aneta said it was organized by Alfred Rosenberg Reichsmarshal for occupied eastern territory and Arthur Seyss-Inquart German commissioner for Holland and would be headed by Rost Van Tonningen, Nazi appointed president of the Netherlands bank.

Guns Discussed by McGibbony

Sergeant Frank McGibbony of the Arkansas State Police discussed firearms, their care and use, at the sixth session of the Auxiliary Police school conducted under the Civilian Defense Council at Hope city hall Wednesday night.

The two final sessions of the Auxiliary Police school will be held Thursday and Friday nights, starting at 7:30 o'clock and running three hours each night. The class of about 35 local men will on Friday night have completed a total of 24 hours of study of police law, procedure, weapons and equipment.

Sergeant McGibbony told the school Wednesday night that anyone can become a fair revolver shot if he can meet the following requirements:

1. Normal eyesight.
2. A fairly steady nerve.
3. Has the desire to learn to shoot.

Sergeant McGibbony explained shooting positions and the care of revolvers Wednesday night; and actual pistol-shooting will follow on the concluding night of the course.

All-Kiwanis Week June 14

Hope Kiwanians will observe All-Kiwanis Week, June 14-20, joining with the 2,179 other Kiwanis clubs in the United States and Canada in a continent-wide observance stressing twenty-seven years of service achievement.

"Our members are joining with the 113,500 other Kiwanians in the United States and Canada to observe this occasion," Rev. J. E. Hamill, club president, announced today.

Kiwanis was founded in Detroit on January 21, 1915, and the celebration will concentrate attention on the organization's war program and the community service results.

As a service club our 113,500 Kiwanians are united to do a good war-time job in their communities," says Charles S. Donley, Pittsburgh, Pa., president of Kiwanis International, in a special bulletin to the local club. "War-time service is the keynote of today. Our times call for self-sacrifice, courage and determination, thrift and a faith that right will win."

The program for All-Kiwanis Week is to be in charge of B. E. McMahon and the committee on Kiwanis education. All club members are expected to take a pledge dedicating themselves to the promotion of war activities, the promotion of patriotic citizenship and the observance of Kiwanis principles.

In observance of All-Kiwanis Week a Kiwanis Ladies Night program has been arranged for Monday night at the Hope Country Club. The dinner will begin at 8 o'clock to be followed immediately by a special program arranged by Mr. and Mrs. B. E. McMahon and the Kiwanis Educational Committee. The local Kiwanis quartet will appear on the program, as well as Mrs. J. E. Hamill and others.

It is believed, Kiwanis officials said Thursday, that some 70 Kiwanians and ladies would attend the meeting Monday night.

Locomotives Also Changed

London (AP)—As they become due for overhauling, locomotives on the British railways are now going into "battle dress."

Up to this stage of the war roundhouse crews have contrived to keep their iron horses trimmed here and there with the distinctive colors that identify them.

The decision to efface "the house colors" with black from front to rear has been made to save labor and materials. Henceforth the dullest switching engine will be as bright as "the Coronation Scot."

Horse Return Revives Laws

Denver (AP)—Staging a comeback with the horse — if and when that occurs — will be a heavy file of ancient city ordinances.

Horseback riders will have to be familiar with almost as many rules and regulations as a car driver.

For instance, it's still the law in Denver that horses can't be hitched to light posts; it's against the law to deliberately frighten a horse on the street; a hitching weigh must be placed in the street and not on the sidewalk; and a horse must be "parked" in such a manner, at the hitching post that his posterior does not extend into a public highway, impeding traffic.

Big Nazi Push Indicated on Russian Front

Moscow —(P)—Germany increased its pressure along the entire front attacking Thursday at three major points, opening a new push from Kharkov in the Ukraine, hurling whole divisions against besieged Sevastopol and battering at Murmansk from the air.

Battlefront dispatches suggested that Germany at last was starting its summer campaign after being held or thrust back for the past 6 months.

Tass reported from Sevastopol that the Germans had attacked repeatedly during the past 24 hours but said that despite the intensity and stubbornness of the attacks the enemy failed to break resistance of Sevastopol defenders, the troops firmly holding ground.

Aerial activity on both sides was described as intense.

Japs Admit 2 Carriers Lost

Tokyo —(P)—Japan's leading civilian naval expert, Massanori Ito said Thursday that in view of the great success of the Japanese in the battle of the Pacific "We should not be disappointed at the loss of two aircraft carriers for the gains are far greater than the loss."

(This was the first authoritative Tokyo suggestion that two carriers had been sunk as officially claimed by the United States.)

(Imperial headquarters admitted Wednesday that only one was sunk but said another was damaged.)

Warns Aussies of Jap Attack

Allied Headquarters in Australia —(P)—Allied airmen listed a Japanese submarine and a number of grounded planes Thursday as fresh victims of their southwest Pacific operations but Australians were warned that another attack was possible.

Air minister Francis Forde, expressed belief that "we must be even stronger defensively. No one knowing Japanese naval and military strength will be fooled into believing that she will accept the Carol Sea and Midway reverses without hitting back."

Armed Services Stretch Money

By ELEANOR RAGSDALE

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

Washington — It's fine that U. S. fighting men and their families will have more dollars to spend through the new pay-increase bill or the allotments and allowances proposal. But the Army and Navy regularly provide lots of ways for a man in uniform to stretch a dollar, that civilians might well envy.

Besides getting that free "show" you hear so much about, a fellow's clothing problem is simplified as soon as he joins the armed forces. Privates and enlisted seamen, of course, are given a complete basic outfit—from shorts to necktie.

Officers Are Not So Fortunate

Officers, less fortunate, receive a uniform allowance that may seem big, but actually only gives a guy a start on that fabulous wardrobe of dress, undress, work, rain, arctic and tropic ensembles every well-dressed officer requires.

Though a fashion-minded man may pay metropolitan tailors top prices for elegantly-cut olive drab or special gold cuff-strips, there are regulation army and navy stores where enlisted men and thrifty officers can buy standard items and replacements at more or less fixed prices. Hankies come around 3 or 4 cents, for instance; plain sturdy black oxfords are $3.50.

Nearly everything a man on duty buys at the Army Post Exchange or Navy Ships Service "small stores" is limited in profit. On board a battleship a man may buy shaving soap—or perfume for his girl at just 10 per cent mark-up over the Navy purchase price. Laundry, too, is reasonable.

No one needs to remind fur-lough-hungry gobs and rookies that they can get train tickets at a low cent-and-a-quarter per mile. With fewer motorists on the road to give thumbs a ride, this service rate will be more welcome than ever.

Finest Medical Care Costs Him Nothing

Think for a moment, now, of the doctor's and dentist's bills a member of the armed forces can laugh off once he's signed up. Complete medical care and hospitalization, is his while he is in service. If he cracks up on active duty, either Army or Navy is responsible for total care, although it may sometimes mean flying a man to a private hospital for a particularly delicate operation. If he's laid up on furlough, the man is still entitled to full treatment at Army or Navy hospitals—even if he has busted his hand in a purely private round of fistfights.

Families of men or officers may receive courtesy treatment at regular post or base hospitals or clinics—if there is room for them, and

The 14-year-old Mrs. Manning previously confessed to officers that she shot her husband of 3 months because "I was afraid he was going to kill me."

Manning accused the bride of the shooting before he died, authorities said.

To Open Thrust on Continent During 1942

By the Associated Press

The United States, Great Britain and Russia have officially disclosed Thursday, to have reached a full understanding on "the urgent task of creating a second front in Europe in 1942."

A White House announcement issued simultaneously with the British statement said President Roosevelt and the Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov had reached agreement on the problem of launching a might offensive.

Date Not Set

It did not say, however, when and if the three powers had decided to open a second front, emphasizing the urgent task of creating a new front.

The British announced the signing of a 20 year mutual assistance treaty with Russia. The treaty pledged the two powers not to seek territorial aggrandizement for themselves after the war and to a policy of not interfering in the internal affairs of other states.

Pact Signed May 26

Britain's foreign Minister Anthony Eden said the pact was signed May 26.

Eden said the pact was directed against Hitlerite Germany and the signatories pledged themselves to rebuild post-war Europe on designs of the Atlantic charter of Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill. Japan was not mentioned.

Have Respect for U. S. Flag

By GRIDLEY ADAMS

Chairman, National Flag Code Committee

Written for NEA Service

New York — Today, with America fighting to maintain her heritage of freedom, it is vitally important that all of us—every man and woman, boy and girl—know how to render the American flag the respect that is its due.

The flag is not just a piece of bright material. It is the symbol of a great nation, just as the cross is the symbol of a great faith. The flag is the symbol of mankind's highest and noblest aspirations, it deserves to be displayed correctly, reverently and—DAILY.

The United States flag is very proud of its supremacy and what that supremacy stands for. The blue and starry canton (the Union) of the flag is its honor point, and always is shown at the flag's own right hand corner, when displayed other than on its staff, and when hung either horizontally or vertically.

The flag should always be carried, or positioned, at the right hand of persons or objects—the "Military right of line"—and all other flags at the left hand of persons or objects.

On platforms, or in the chancels of churches, the flag (one alone) should always be on its staff at the speaker's right hand, and slightly in front of the speaker.

Never Cross the U. S. Flag

Never cross two U. S. flags against a wall. To do so makes one of them point to its left or "snister"—traditionally the cowardly direction.

One flag alone is majestic; more than one is decoration. The flag is never decoration. For festooning, draping, and decoration in general, use bunting, especially designed for the purpose. When using bunting always have the blue stripe at the top, as do the WPA signs, air mail boxes and the like. Correctly, the colors go "Blue, White and Red."

The flag should never trail in the water. It is never laid flat upon tables, desks, and the like. The only exception is when it covers the casket of one who has served in some armed service of our Government. At such time, from the standpoint of onlookers, it is "reversed," but to the deceased it is not reversed.

The flag should be half-staffed offered their lives that it may never only for persons who have once been hailed down by a foe, never for any other person except by Presidential authority.

If the deceased is either a State or City official, then the State or the City's flag is the proper one to Exercise Good for the Legs

By ALICIA HART
NEA Service Staff Writer

There's no doubt the stocking situation has Miss America leg-conscious. My mail is full of things like this:

"I had nice-sized legs I could go without stockings happily. Some girls want to trim down their legs. A surprisingly big number ask how to build up.

Both types can do it with exercise. It may seem odd but it is true that some exercises, performed a certain way, will add to muscles, and others will take away from them.

Spring Cord Does the Trick
One outstanding Fifth Avenue salon suggests using the same laundry-stretchy gadget, a cord with a lot of spring in it and with looped ends, whether your underpinnings are too slight or too solid. But of course different exercises are selected, and they're done differently. The gadget helps—any piece of rope would help, and naturally the spring helps more—to keep your balance and your interest in the routines.

Here are two routines for expanding legs:
Stand with arms raised, preferably balanced comfortably with the cord. Then lunge forward on Beside the complicated pension and compensation system run by the Veterans' Administration to care for widows, children and other dependents of a man killed or disabled in the war, the Army and Navy themselves have taken some definite measure to help bereft families.

First, they provide burial for a man—either in a national cemetery or wherever his family wishes. All shipping is paid for and transportation of one escort furnished. A special "storm flag," used for the ceremony, becomes the property of the man's nearest relative.

Beside all back pay, an extra 6-month gratuity allowance is made to the family as a matter of course. And, in addition, a very reasonable type of total war risk insurance, known as National Service Life Insurance, is available up to $10,000 to any service man as a greater protection for his family.

Private Relief Groups Are a Big Help
No story of soldiers' and sailor's financial benefits would be complete without mention of the various private relief agencies standing by to help him or his family in cases of emergency.

Army and Navy Emergency Relief funds are being built up by a generous public to give swift, immediate aid to service dependents, when illness or death, a delayed check or insurance settlement work hardship. The various veterans' organizations, too, are ready to offer rapid. The Red Cross, represented by a Field Director in every camp, at home and abroad, stands on the alert to lend a man money for an essential trip home.

From the neighborhood movie manager to the New York barber who defied union rates to give "the boys" cheap haircuts, more grateful Americans are backing up Uncle Sam every day to help the men at the guns stretch their dollars.

Have Respect

half-staff. Similarly if the deceased is a member of a fraternal organization or a club.

Thousands of automobiles carry a small, metal Flag on the rear license plate. Little do their owners realize that the Flag never trails anything; its position is always at the very front.

One Woman Didn't Like Flag's Colors
Never use the Flag as the covering or unveiling material when dedicating a tablet or monument. Such misuse, so often seen, lowers our National Emblem to the status of any common material. Upon all such occasions have the Flag flying full and free—the most majestic factor in any unveiling ceremony.

The Flag in the form of a jeweled pin should never be worn as an ornament, but only as a badge to proudly indicate one's allegiance to that country to which he or she owes so much. Recently a woman saw some Flag pins on a store's counter. Turning to the clerk she said: "They are very pretty, but haven't you got them in any other colors?" She was after just an ornament, but her ignorance was no ornament to her citizenship.

Salute by Placing Hand Over Heart
Soldiers, sailors, firemen and policemen when on duty are not allowed to remove their headgear, as such bears a part of the insignia of their authority, and to remove same would remove part of such authority. So in saluting the Flag they merely touch the brim of their headgear with their fingertips, as much as to say: "I'm doing the next best thing." All women, and men not in uniform salute a passing or a stationary Flag by holding their right hands over the heart. This is the "Lincoln hand-over-heart" salute.

I have often been asked whether it is proper to stand when you hear the Star Spangled Banner over the radio at home. The answer is most decidedly "Yes." To show your respect to our National Anthem only when others see you standing for it is like "showing off."

left leg. Try to lift the torso up as you lunge, and, most important, put all the steam you can into the lunge. Return to first position; lunge to the right; return; and continue this with alternate legs. Do this quickly and forcefully about ten times.

Then do this deep knee-bend. With one leg behind the other, bend on toes and place hands on floor in front of you. Now quickly rise on toes to standing-tiptoe position. Repeat swiftly till you feel definitely tired, especially at ankles and knees.

In those exercises, you're following the principle that the ballet dancer does when she works out. You are doing vigorous, concentrated exercise. This draws blood to the muscles. Then you relax and rest. Five to fifteen minutes' work-out daily should be sufficient.

The principle is reversed for trimming down—that is, here you should employ relatively slow, restful movements which, over a long stretch, consume the energy up as fat. To reduce the entire leg, and especially the thigh, sit on the floor with weight on the right hip. Slip feet through loops of the cord and support yourself partly on right hand, on floor.

Now, bring the left foot and arm forward, scissor-like, very slowly; and slowly return to original position. Repeat for ten to fifteen minutes.

or as long as you can, comfortably; and reverse. Then lie on your back, on floor or bed, legs in air, and repeat the slow scissors motion. This is suggested especially for reducing fat around knees and calves. The knees should be held straight.

Don't Anticipate Immediate Results
Don't expect either set of exercises to change your shape all once—there is no magic here. But persistence for a few months definitely will improve your contours.

Meanwhile, you might remember: Enhance the surface and you enhance all. Witness the reputation that pre-war sheer hose helped gain for American legs. And it is a fact that the illusion of the same soft, smooth, fine texture that silk and nylon gave to the leg surface can be achieved now with any of a whole array of products which mimic hose. So don't be too self-conscious about those shapes!

Burlap Shortage Is Overcome With Wire

Deer Lodge, Mont. (AP)—Don Tavenner has solved the problem of how to prepare his wool for shipment without the use of burlap, of which there is a shortage.

Usually wool is sacked. This spring Tavenner placed his wool clips in his hay bales and pressed them into bales, using wire to hold them together. The operation was a success, says Tavenner.

Sugar Saving Hints for Local Home Canners

In response to inquiries concerning the new system of rationing sugar, additional home-canning hints were issued Monday to Hempstead county homemakers by Miss Claude Fletcher, county home demonstration agent.

With the allotment for home canning now based on the ratio of one pound of sugar to each four quarts of fruit, Miss Fletcher said many homemakers are now asking how many quarts can be canned from a bushel of peaches or a crate of berries.

In answer to these questions, Miss Fletcher offered the following information just received from Miss Mary E. Loughhead of the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture.

The amount of raw fruit needed to can a certain number of jars is dependent upon several factors. These factors include type of fruit; ripeness; amount of waste, such as seeds or skins; size of pieces; method of packing the fruit into containers; and method of processing.

The following table shows the approximate yield of canned fruit which can be secured from a certain measure of raw fruit, and should serve as a fairly accurate guide in estimating the amount of sugar which would be needed to can a certain measure of various fruits.

Approximate yield of canned products from raw products:

- Apples (2 to 6 per lb.), 1 bushel, 18-20 qts.
- Black or Raspberries, 1 crate, 14-16 qts.
- Cherries, 1 gallon with seeds, 3 qts.
- Grapes (for Juice), 1 bushel, 12-16 qts.
- Peaches (5 to 8 per lb.), 1 bushel, 18-20 qts.
- Pears (3 lbs.), 1 bushel, 25-30 qts.
- Plums (15 to 20 per lb.), 1 bushel, 28-30 qts.
- Strawberries, 1 crate, 10-12 qts.

There is no such thing as a sure thing in a horse race. You can't always beat a race, let alone the races.

In the shaded paddock, as they came out for the Belmont, Maj. Louie Beard, head of the Whitney racing interests, pronounced Shut Out as fit as hands could make him, but added that Alsab was "from here to that tree the better horse." The tree was more than the three lengths by which Shut Out won away.

Plain Ben Jones, who was Whirlaway and Cactus, asserted that no 3-year-old could beat Alsab.

"When Alsab was beaten this spring, we weren't broken-hearted," explained Al Sabath, owner of the bargain-basement colt. "We were getting ready for the big races."

"Alsab should have won the Derby," declared Sarge Swenke, trainer of the little bay. "He won The Preakness and he'll win the Belmont."

"I came to see Alsab further spread the fame of his sire," cut in Tom Platt, who bred the 2-year-old champion of last year and on whose farm, near Lexington, Ky., stands Good Goods of the Domino line.

All the experts and handicappers agreed there was nothing to it. Who are you going to believe? So the mob made Alsab 2 to 5 and Shut Out 7 to 2 in a struggle that brought $317,478 to the machines.

Blinded by Alsab's remarkable runs in The Preakness and Withers Mile, the great bulk of the players completely forgot that Shut Out had captured the Blue Grass Stakes and Derby, had bumped into trouble in The Preakness and beaten Chaldon by six lengths in the Ballot Handicap at Belmont in 148 4-5, only 2-5 off the track record.

What is even more important, they overlooked the fact that on that afternoon Eddie Arcaro had continued to the mile and a quarter in 2:02 1-5, which is better time than that turned in by the winner of the 1941 Suburban.

I recalled this to one famous trainer, pointed out that in carrying 112 pounds, Shut Out gave two to Chaldon by scale weight.

"But Shut Out carries 126 pounds today," he replied, just as though that weight had retarded him in the Derby.

Arcaro may have outgeneralized Basil James by making Alsab run seven-eighths of a mile from home. Alsab took the lead momentarily, but Shut Out moved right with him and from there on was out in front a-wingin'.

If Alsab was forced to make his move too early, the same was true of Shut Out. The difference was that Alsab was plainly through as they swung into the stretch.

Alsab appeared a bit jaded at the finish, and may not have been up to his Withers form.

Now you hear more about Al Sabath and Sarge Swenke having run his legs off, but the Ol' Sarge was hailed as a wonder trainer when Alsab hit the form that made them call him "another Man o' War" as a juvenile. Swenke can't be criticized. A truly great horse isn't up one week and down the next.

They'll probably meet in the mile and a quarter Dwyer at Aqueduct, June 20. You can have a better price on Alsab then.

Alsab had no excuse in the Belmont. The time for the mile and a half — 2:20 1-5 — was excellent, so let's forget that another Man o' War stuff and just say that Alsab was beaten for the second time by another good race horse.

Saccharin Has No Food Value

Hempstead county homemakers were advised Tuesday by Miss Mary Claude Fletcher, county home demonstration agent, that saccharin should not be considered a substitute for sugar since it has no food value.

In response to inquiries received from Hempstead county cooks since sugar rationing went into effect, the county home demonstration agent explained that saccharin is a coal tar product 300 to 550 times as sweet as sugar, but brings out a bitter flavor when used in cooking.

Information received from Miss Blanche Randolph of the University of Arkansas college of agriculture, Miss Fletcher said, advised that saccharin cannot be substituted for sugar in any food which depends upon sugar for its consistency or texture.

Saccharin is not practical in jelly making since in a typical fruit jelly, jam or preserve, sugar is used to impart a certain consistency to the finished product as well as to sweeten. Saccharin cannot be used to replace sugar in yeast breads either, since it does not act as a yeast food.

If saccharin is to be used as a sweetening agent, the assistant extension specialist in foods and nutrition advised that it should be added after the product is cooked, and just before it is served. Only small amounts of saccharin should be used at a time to avoid over-sweetening.

Pointing out that many people dislike any food sweetened with saccharin, Miss Randolph stated that it is better to learn to eat less sweet food, or do without such products than to prepare unsatisfactory products.

Aunt Minnie Regrets: Her Relatives Don't Realize Her Country Place is No Hotel

By RUTH MILLETT

Are you half-way planning on sending the kids to visit Aunt Minnie for a couple of weeks this summer because you think all children should have the experience of living on a farm?

Well, maybe you had better wait for Aunt Minnie to ask them, instead of just taking it for granted she would like to have your small fry pushed off on her.

Before you write Aunt Minnie saying that you'll put the children on the train next Tuesday and for her to be sure and meet them, it might be a good idea for you to read a letter one "Aunt Minnie" wrote me the other day. Here it is, in part:

"I have been praying that you would hit on the subject of the city woman who moves to the country, having to get accustomed to going without most modern conveniences, etc.—and the inevitable result."

"All the kinfolks from one end of the U. S. A. to the other just can't seem to keep from dropping in, at any time for a visit—short or long."

"I get a telegram at nine a. m.
to meet the noon train—six delightful relatives are arriving."

"Sister Bertha from Boston writes: 'If we are bombed can I ship the kids out to you?' (There are five of them.)"

"Cousin Pauline, who did not know me very well in town, tells Mother she wants to 'run down some day and have a good old gabfest with Minnie'."

"I'm sure I don't know what we would gab about. I hardly know her, but her two little youngsters no doubt would make a wreck of me, keeping them from drowning in the run and away from the stock, etc."

"Grandmas and uncles and aunts, well meaning and kind, but how they love to drop everything and drop in on me. The round of a country woman is a nightmare if she has a bunch of relatives."

It's a Big Job Being Hostess

"It's a round of meals. Kill a couple of chickens, fire up the range, change the beds for overnight. Forget about the garden to be hoed, the linus you want to pick and cold pack—you have company."

"It is not that my husband and I are not hospitable. But we moved into this place that needed so much repair and we have had to work day and night to make it go.
And now that my husband is working in a distant defense plant, I get up at 4 a. m. and have so much more to do this summer, I am desperate. So please don't spare any punches and give the country women a break in your column—or we shall be swamped again this summer."

Diet Important to Teeth Care

Diet is as important to the proper development of the teeth as it is to bodily growth and the maintenance of health. Miss Mary Claude Fletcher, county home demonstration agent, said Monday in discussing the importance of nutrition to child care.

A recent dental study of 1,000 children in grade school, Miss Fletcher said, has shown that a majority have decay in their first permanent teeth, usually known as the six-year molars.

Unlike the other permanent teeth, according to Miss Gertrude E. Conant of the University of Arkansas, College of Agriculture, the first permanent molar has started to calcify even at birth. The crown of the tooth may be completed as early as the third year and usually erupts in the mouth by the time the child is 6 or 7 years old.

This early age, from two to six,
Miss Conant says, is often neglected so far as nutrition goes. Lack of vitamins A and D is shown in poorly developed enamel.

The expectant mother and the child under one year old are usually under the care of a physician who sees that both mother and child have adequate nutrition.
When the child goes to school, he is usually under health supervision. But too often the "in between" child is neglected nutritionally which neglect accounts for poor tooth development.

Dentists are calling these factors to the attention of nutritionists, the extension specialist in family life and child development says, in order that they may help to call the attention of parents to this critical time. Mothers should be trained to pay special attention to the nutrition of the child, so there will be no lack of vitamins A and D in his diet during these critical years. Such training will assist in producing teeth which resist decay and a healthy body which resists disease.

Much Milk Is Rejected Due to Low Quality

In the Food-for-Victory program, dairy farmers have been asked to produce large quantities of good clean, sweet milk for cheese, for evaporate milk, and for dried milk of acceptable grades. On the other hand, 15 per cent of the present increased production in the state is being rejected because of its substandard quality, says Oliver L. Adams, county agent.

Improper cooling is one of the primary causes for bacterial growth in milk and the subsequent low quality of the product.

With a plentiful supply of cold water and a concrete milk cooling tank, it is possible to cool milk sufficiently to produce a good quality product. The size of the tank to be constructed will depend on the volume of milk to be cooled. The tank should be constructed to hold approximately three gallons of water for each gallon of milk. Larger volumes of water will cool milk more rapidly as well as maintain lower temperature during storage.

Labor in handling cans can be reduced by placing the tank partly below floor level. Water should be placed so that cold water will enter at the bottom of the tank and the discharge should be located 21 inches from the bottom for 10-gallon cans. The discharge water can be used for stock water or for irrigation of gardens.

The uninsulated tank is usually built about 3 feet wide, 27 inches deep, with 4-inch concrete walls. The inside length for a four-can tank should be 4 feet. This tank will hold approximately 170 gallons of water.

Warm fresh milk should never be mixed with cold milk of a previous milking, since this hastens growth of bacteria. The tank should be constructed of sufficient size to at least take care of all milk produced in a 24-hour period.

An "iron savings account" has been created in Germany in an endeavor to freeze increased income of individuals until after the war, the Department of Commerce reports.

SPORTING BLOOD

By HARRY HARRISON KROLL

THE STORY: Strickland Ballard, pompous, paternalist medicine king, has poetically stolen a prize horse and a new strain of corn from young Hunter Dent, his farm manager. Hunter bets his next year's salary that before the year's end his wages-loving employees will restore his horse and corn, and apologize. He repeats the bet before Ballard's daughter, Bella. Late that night Hunter finds Ballard's disgruntled son, Junior, lying on the floor of his room. He is a snitch containing $17,000.

CHAPTER II

HUNTER DENT dazedly counted the sum of money again, and replaced the large denominations in the leather bag. A goldleaf monogram, almost obliterated by use, was of the First National Bank, Middleton. The Ballard Laboratories had their account in this bank. It was possible the money was Mr. Ballard's. Hunter went and looked down at the boy. He was breathing with a gurgling noise and seemed dead drunk.

"Poor brat. Well, this is the fruits of too much paternal indulgence. I'd better get him to his room and to bed."

First, however, he must safeguard the money. He put it in the new steel safe, the combination to which only Hunter knew, as the safe was recently installed and Mr. Ballard had not got around to checking on the installation. Hunter then hoisted the limp young man across his powerful shoulders and carried him into the night. The party seemed to have broken. Hunter knew his way about. He toted Junior to his room and without taking

"You know, mysteries always charm and challenge me," Bella said. "I'll wager you that if I had a clew I could solve this deep dark mystery."

off his clothes put him on the bed and came away.

He made a round of the house. Odd about the party's breaking up. Usually these things lasted all night. The house was as deserted as a tomb. He searched for Junior's car, a powerful, costly roadster, but it was not in the garage nor parked under the trees in the drive.

"Funny," Hunter commented in his mind.

The thought that struck Hunter made his pulse pound. Junior Ballard in all likelihood was so intoxicated that he would remember nothing of his coming to the office, of Hunter's carrying him to his bed, perhaps not even how or where he had got the money!

"All I would need to do," Hunter thought, "would be to keep the money in the safe. Junior will almost certainly get into trouble over it. Just before he has to go to jail, or the hot seat, I can have my inning with his daddy. Ballard will do anything for the boy. I've got him with his tail in the fence-crack, and all I need to do is let the fence drop smack-dab down on him!"

Maybe it was a little shabby. But when you have just yielded up the fruits of some years of your own life because of an underdog, and you manage in turn to grab yourself an underdog even stronger, is that a moment in which to weaken? Hunter stiffened his spine and went in, going to bed so as to catch some more sleep before he rose early in the morning.

He did not sleep very well. He waked before sunrise, according to his habit. He went down to the barns. There he set the colored boys to feeding the horses, and getting the milking done. Sunrise was gathering on the hills and valleys and river when he was through with the morning chores.

"Top of the morning!" called a cheerful contralto voice from the bottom step as Hunter came around the corner of the office.

"Hullo, Red," Hunter said, eyeing her with disapproval. Bella Ballard wore a bright peasant dress, a milkmaid's dress. If she had ever milked a cow he had not seen her. But for her father's registered herds she might have supposed milk grew in bottles and was plucked from trees. Her gay parody on a working-girl's costume somehow outraged the young manager. She was just a little too lovely, her lips were just a bit too kissable. She hadn't any right to be so damned attractive. It would have been different if she still followed him around as she did as a teen-kid. Now she was grown up. She would be married at Christmas to Oliver Tisdale.

TRUE, all this was poor excuse for his contrary venom. "What are you doing here? Clear out," he told her. He supposed this was jealousy. But she got on his nerves.

"What's that you've got?"

"The morning paper. It comes by the dawn cream truck. Since you seem to be illiterate I'd better read you the news which has crowded the war news off the front page." She shook the paper out.

"That's interesting," Hunter grunted.

"Yes, it is. A bank messenger was shot last night and seventeen thousand."

Hunter grabbed the paper, read furiously, hitting the high spots. The slugged bank messenger was near death. Unconscious, and the police had been unable to question him. Identity of assailants unknown. The supposition was that a payroll, or secret movement of money in currency, had cleared through the First National on short notice, but bank authorities had not been contacted at the time of going to press. The job had all the earmarks of an inside stunt.

its preservation Germany must win.

She's Ruthless With Her Face—And Herself

She will be ruthless with the enemy if that is required to safeguard the principles she believes in. And her part in the present struggle shows she is willing to be ruthless with herself.

She is ruthless in her personal sacrifices of food, as a toiler in factories, public services and in many actually dangerous posts connected with national defense.

Of less concern, but very real, are the sacrifices she makes in personal appearance and the niceties which appeal to women the world over.

It is here that she makes her greatest challenge to her counterpart in America. She has already learned to do without many of the things which American women have in plenty.

Does Without Many Necessities

Silk stockings, bobby pins, cosmetics, scissors, combs, brushes, mending thread and yarn, shoes, galoshes, dry cleaning and laundry soap, face powder and many other similar accessories are unobtainable or rationed heavily in Germany.

The Nazis have worked hard to make Vienna the fashion center of the world, but this is little comfort to the average German woman. These fashion showings are primarily lavish propaganda displays monopolized by party leaders and their wives and girl friends. Orders taken for new sty are restricted to firms which can less-for delivery after the war-

ed his orders through a "friend" in the Italian embassy.

Buying shoes through the same channels was more complicated. First, the Italian got a shoe from a woman in the embassy with the same size foot, and had her request a shoe ration ticket through official channels. Coming from the Italian embassy, this request was granted by the Germans.

But such opportunities are rare. Furthermore, most German women would patriotically refuse to make such a deal. Besides, they say, with all the men at the front, there is no one back home really worth the trouble to look nice for.

After almost three years of war, German women have relegated the clothing question to the background. There are such things as factory or office jobs, having babies, long and tedious shopping, housework which must be done without servants.

Spinsters Advertise In "Want Ad" Columns

The marriage market is thriving only among middle-aged frauleins, who fill long want ad columns in the newspapers with descriptions of their charms and emphasis on love of home life and desire to have babies. A few require that prospective husbands must be Nazi party members.

Most fortunate of the German working women are those in government offices. Although poorly paid, their hours are not exceptionally long, and they obtain extra privileges through their employers.

Compared with American standards, their morals are not exceptionally high. Many other-wise self-respecting girls will exchange their favors for a small package of real coffee or chocolate candy.

More difficult is the career of the woman or girl at a factory bench or machine. Newspapersmen taken on propaganda tours of industrial plants were impressed with excellent health and working conditions and the high morale of women workers.

Strain Tells on Workers

But I was informed privately by a nurse assigned to one of these plants that although morale remains good, women workers are becoming less able to stand the strain physically.

Many of them faint at their machines, she said, especially in heavy industries where they have replaced men. Two or three days of rest may be given in these cases, but it often is insufficient, and the woman may collapse again soon after returning to work.

Air raids depriving them of proper rest are a terrible handicap to these women.

Direct personal taxes in the United States in 1941 totaled about four billion dollars, the Department of Commerce reports.

During 1939 Montana had a tuberculosis death rate of 43.4 per 100,000 of its population.
